Gruet Sparkling Wine: The Finest New Mexico Has to Offer!

Yep, you read that right: New Mexico. In 1984 a Champagne maker from France was traveling through the American Southwest and saw the possibilities that the New Mexican climate held for grape growing. He planted Pinot Noir and Chardonnay, and in 1989 released his first vintage to rave reviews. Today, Gruet Winery is still producing some of America's best sparkling wines!

The Brut and Blanc de Noir both have nice, crisp flavors of green apple, and fine bubble textures typical of more expensive Champagnes. The Rose has a nice dried strawberry note.

These wines will make perfect additions to any holiday party, and are inexpensive as well. At $14.99 a 750ml bottle, this is easily one of the best sparkling values this year!

SPIRITS

We have continued to receive more and more spirits gift sets. One of my favorites among these is the Jack Daniel's Single Barrel Ducks Unlimited Edition. This one comes in an attractive black tin box with two Ducks Unlimited rocks glasses. An essential gift for a Jack drinker! $39.99.

BEER

With the increase to our craft brew section, we have more winter beers this year than ever before. Since there are just too many for me to detail, I'll pick my two favorites and list some of the others you can find on our shelves. A lot of these are hard to find and will make great gifts for beer drinkers this holiday season.

Lost Abbey Carnivale- This is a terrific ale along the lines of a Belgian Golden Ale. Full bodied, very malty, and actually quite sweet. This beer is great alone, but I actually prefer it after dinner in place of dessert! $8.99/750ML.

Delirium Noel- Here's one I look forward to every year. Delirium is one of Belgium's best known breweries, and for good reason. Their beers are outstanding. Noel is no exception. This beer is thick in texture, leaving almost a sticky consistency in your mouth. It's malty, sweet, and fairly high in alcohol, though it is also well balanced. $8.99/750ML
